FORT SASKATCHEWAN A PHONESS CITY

Service at Garrison Town Shut Off To-day by Order of the Edmonton Authorities—Outcome of Action of Fort Council in Regard to Renewal of License—Mayors Griesbach and McAvoy Discussing Settlement

Fort Saskatchewan today is entirely without telephone service either in the town itself or on the trunk line between Edmonton and that place. Yesterday an employee was sent from the city and in accordance with instructions received, he closed up the service which is owned by the city of Edmonton.

This climax is the result of the letter from the Fort's town clerk, which was read at last meeting of the city council. It asked that rates be reduced from the present five dollars to $24 to $15 for business phones and $10 for residences and the office kept open till 10 o'clock at night. In return for those sweeping reductions the town would grant an extension of the franchise for three months.

In speaking of the matter this morning Mayor Griesbach pointed out that the city were compelled to pay a license fee of $50 and in addition the poles and wires were taxed. The service last year resulted in a deficit of $27.15, or, in other words, the city lost a dollar a day, even when the business was conducted as it has been up to the present time. "The city government is a paternal one," said the mayor, "when she is dealing with her own, but with others, a soulless corporation."

This morning Mayor McAvoy, of Saskatchewan, called up Mayor Griesbach asking that the service be continued. The latter, however, refused to discuss the question except on the basis that the following proposals be considered as a special meeting of the town council to be called immediately—

1—Remission of license fee.

2—Phones at previous rates.

3—Management of a franchise or the securing of the city's investment.

"If these conditions are not complied with," Mayor Griesbach concluded, "the service will be permanently shut down."

In the exhibition game at Toronto he sustained a fractured collar bone. As a result of the mishap to Hooper, the games arranged to be played in the copper country have been cancelled and the players are now returning home. Ray Beaudry and G. Griffin were the first to arrive, reaching here yesterday. The others will be along in a day or two.

ONE MORE JUROR WANTED.

Famous Trial Case Will Probably go on Today.

New York, Jan. 31.—There were several sessions in the Shaw murder trial today. Before the two sessions of the court ended for the day, three of the jurors had been released from further service in connection with the case. In two of the cases no explanation was given as to the other jurors were released. The juror led to his dismissal. Three more jurors were secured during the day, and while the court adjourned at 4 o'clock there was still one vacant seat in the jury box. The district attorney announced today that he would not deliver the opening address in the trial but would leave that to his assistant who had direct charge of the case since the night of the tragedy.

ANOTHER FIAT

City Employees Must be Paid, Says Mayor Griesbach, or Off Go Their Heads

Another fiat has been issued from the city hall. City employees must be paid to all with whom they come in contact during business hours. In the past month some instances of inactivity have come to the notice of Mayor Griesbach and he has issued the following to all city employees—

"Complaint has been made that certain of the employees of the city have been grossly unwill to the citizens of this city and to other persons for the time being resident in the city. I need scarcely say that in the permanent staff of any of the city of the same civility will be expected from the employees who are not expected from the employees of any other financial or industrial institution.

It must be borne in mind that the officers and employees of the city are the servants of the citizens and that it is their duty to observe the intimation here in contained will result in action being taken by the administration."

The chief of police and the chief of the fire department are instructed that the above applies insofar as it is a demand on the part of the city officials.

TARIFF NEARLY COMPLETED

Only Items Objected to by the Opposition and Inconsistencies Left to Deal With—Looks Like Short Session at Ottawa—Premier May Attend Colonial Conference

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—At today's sitting of the house the bill tariff items were passed with the exception of those that have been held over for the opposition to discuss and those that the government wants to consider further with a view of amendment. While there will be several amendments they are not to be of a radical character, but rather more in the way of straightening out any inconsistencies. Next week will see the new tariff adopted and the remaining legislation not very heavy or very contentious. There is no reason why proposition should not take place in time to let Laurier and his colleagues away to attend the colonial conference.

Colored Woman in Kenora Dies in Quailers and Misery.

She was craved with drink and with a knife in her hand. She was built and she was made uncomfortable as possible, but died about 8 o'clock. The corner was spilt but did not consider an inquest necessary. Her death was evidently the result of over-indulgence in whisky and consequent neglect. Her husband is now living in Dakota.

TOWN MUST BEAR RESPONSIBILITY

The Goldie McCulloch Company Only Responsible in Their Agents Might Have Advised Town of Condition of Footings Before Installation

He Offers a New Site at Lesser Cost For the New Hospital—His Advice on the Engines Defective Footings

The announcement published in the Bulletin on Wednesday that the new engine in the Strathcona electric power house was in a dangerous condition and could not be used with safety has been the subject of considerable discussion during the past two days.

The matter has been investigated thoroughly by the fire and light committee of the town council and after careful consideration they have brought in the following report:

"Your committee have been having generally into the terms of the agreement of contract between the town and the Goldie & McCulloch Company, and find that the whole question hinges on the footings which should have been placed under the concrete base specified by the company.

It is certain the present footings are inadequate considering the nature of the soil and the other fact which we can find the company responsible is that their agents who installed the machinery might have been advised by town officials before they consented to install the engines.

"After visiting the plant we were surprised to find two ways of remedying the faulty construction. Either by re-erecting the present foundation or by erecting a new foundation on proper footings. As it is an important matter to decide we have it to the full council to say what is to be done. The work shall be carried out.

To erect a new foundation and put in new fixtures, and the present building would cost about $2,000.

The town engineer is confident that a first class job could be made by putting in re-inforcement in the present foundation. At each end, there would be two rods of concrete at each end, then build up and re-inforce all through. He could not, however, say the cost of this undertaking off.

Town Council

There was a full attendance at the council last night with Mayor Mills in the chair.

It was ordered that the mayor and secretary treasurer be authorized to sign the necessary papers for the thirty charter and also to issue a cheque for $100 to be deposited with the first treasurer to pay for printing, etc.

The mayor suggested that each committee have a list in the office of the secretary treasurer on which the names referred to in several committees be placed. This was agreed to and then what was to be done of the committee was decided.

The question of the condition of the engine at the power house was discussed at much length. The mayor, the man of the fire and light committee and the town engineer were present to confer with any engineers or other practical men with power, to act in the matter, and the committee was informed.

The payment was discussed at some length of $400 for the option on the new hospital site for the period of five years to be paid by the ratepayers.

Mr. Walter asked that buildings to the east of the hospital be removed within two years and the property be not used for any other purpose or as an hospital. The matter was left over for the next meeting.

The council went into committee with Councilor McFarland in the chair, on the Webster proposition, with the feeling of the board was in favor of a definite proposition from Mr. Webster, and the matter was left over for the next meeting.

YOUNG LIBERAL CLUB

The Young Liberal club of this city deserves a good deal of credit for the earnest, useful work in the interests of the Liberal party that it is carrying on in the city. It is doing nothing but keeping open the rooms at its headquarters as a meeting place for Liberals of the city and visitors from other parts of the province the result would be well worth that effort. The work of the club though is by no means confined to simply maintaining these comfortable quarters.

By its frequent meetings and invitations to members of the legislature and others to address the club a lively interest in the welfare of the party and the work of the Liberal government, both Provincial and Dominion, has been kept up.

Too much praise cannot be given to both the present and past officers of the club for their enthusiastic interest in their organization and their excellent work both during election campaigns and in the interval. The active work on behalf of a party in election campaigns must be done by the young men. Upon their vigor and enthusiasm much of the success of a campaign depends. The object of the Edmonton Liberal club is to promote a patriotic interest in the political affairs of our country, keeping its members so informed that their services may be of value in the shaping of public affairs both in Alberta and in the larger field of Canadian politics.

Last year a well conducted mock parliament served a useful purpose in the practice of debate and many members of this organization proved themselves to be no novice in the discussion of public affairs. It is the intention of the club to pursue the same course this winter with, no doubt, the same success. It is also the intention to have a number of the members of the legislature address meetings of the club during the session.

The club has the good will and active support of all the Liberals of the city and it deserves both encouragement and congratulations on its excellent work, and its officers and members are the men who will fight the future battles for the cause of Liberalism in this city.

The Liberal party has always been the party of democracy, the party whose foundation has been built upon the will of the people. Its ideals, its hopes and its ambitions appeal strongly to the young men, and especially to the young men who have come to the West to make homes with their own hands and by their own efforts. To them the Liberal party presents the splendid appeal of government by the people, its traditions reach back through every early struggle in Canada for the civil rights of citizenship, and its history runs through every law of liberty and right and privilege and equality that grace the statute books of Canada. That this club may honor the illustrious history of the great Liberal party is our earnest hope, and that they will be our firm conviction.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

It is rather amusing to read of the powerful speech of Mr. Herbert charging the government with allowing this city to make an agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific about its terminals. The city of Edmonton has a charter to do business on its own account; it made an agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific, which agreement has been ratified by a very substantial vote of the ratepayers of the city, and we doubt very much if the civic authorities, or the citizens would take very kindly to any interference from either the provincial government or the member for Rosebud. The question of annulling this agreement was brought before the Railway Commission in this city by one of our citizens and in reply the chairman of the Commission said this was a compact entered into by two responsible bodies who possessed the power and authority to make it and it was purely a matter between these parties, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the city of Edmonton, and was essentially their own business, so that all these expressions of commiseration for this city are purely gratuitous upon the part of the member for Rosebud. The city of Edmonton may not be able to manage her own business but she is willing to try.

The junior member of the opposition must have seen a map at some time with the railways printed on it in red lines, as "lines of blood" is one of his lurid expressions. In the sense of their being the arteries of commerce the simile would not be far astray. What this country needs most is more such links. More lines of railway better equipped for business will do more for Western Canada than for any other public enterprise, and this other the whole country welcomes the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The member for Rosebud endeavors to belittle the railway tax. What does it amount to? he asks. It may be his opinion that it is of no consequence but that opinion is not shared by many people in the province of Alberta.

The railway tax is popular and satisfactory legislation and will be endorsed by ninety per cent. of the citizens of the province.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Does the member for Rosebud want the tax upon railways repealed, or what is his object in trying to belittle it?

The member for Rosebud did not discuss the lumber question. This is a question upon which he could doubtless have given the legislature some useful information.

The Journal tells falsehoods one day and writes explanatory articles about them the next in the hope that some people will think there is something in their yarn.

With so much practice in retracting, excusing and explaining, something better might have been expected from the Journal than its lame performance this morning.

This country wants more railways whether they look like lines of blood or the tentacles of a devil fish. We want greater competition in the carrying systems of our country.

How the friends of the first great railway corporation of this country hate the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will be the first transcontinental competitor their favorite railway has had.

While it is falsely vilifying the federal government with innuendo and suggestion the Journal is loudly proclaiming its own independence. There never was a blatant hypocrite yet who didn't pray high-spirited hours.

The Latest Fashions

4111 A SWAN COAT FOR THE SMALL MISS

Warm coats are quite essential during these months of cold and storm and one which is full of style and not difficult to fashion is selected for the benefit of the home sewer. It frequently happens that a coat of mother's or father's which is out of style contains excellent material which could be made over into a coat for the small girl or boy. The pattern illustrated is one which would cut to advantage with such material for the back, has a swan in the centre and no section is so extensive but that it could be cut from a larger garment without difficulty. The waist may be made separate as a 60 to be used only when desired. The front closes in double-breasted fashion being the most suitable style for small coats of this kind. For the medium size 1 1/2 yards of 24-in material are needed.

4111—Size 4 to 14 years.

4112 A HOUSE SUIT FOR THE BOY

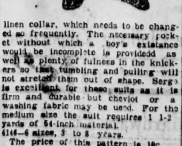

After Russian blouses and Hunter Brown suits are discarded, the small boy feels very big in the real man costume without any semblance of skirts. The most approved style for this period is the blouse and knicker which the boy wears until he is quite large and an excellent model is sketched. The blouse is without elaboration of any kind, and therefore is well liked by mothers who make them. The collar is mounted at the side and the collar stands alone, being very comfortable, and a real relief from the 4112—Size 4 to 14 years.

4113 A GYMNASIUM SUIT FOR LADIES AND GIRLS

In this age of physical culture and gymnastics, women and girls do not at some time take exercise either at home or in a gymnasium. There is no method so much enjoyed or as highly recommended for restoring good health or perfecting gymnastic exercises and for these a costume of special style is imperative. The suit shown is much liked, having a generous blouse with tucks over the shoulder to provide extra fullness over

The girl or woman who is looking

4114—Size 12 to 14 years.

4115 A WARM HOOD AND MUFF

The frosty air is sure to bite small ears and fingers unless they are well protected. A warm hood and muff, winter in nature's health-giving season and will follow most of the mists of the fresh air, but they must be warmly lined. For the medium size 1 1/2 yards of 24-in material are needed and for a girl of 4 years, 1 1/4 yards.

benefit and which is eminently adapted for everyday wear will be pleasant with the accompanying sketch. The waist is convertible in a check model. The blouse has two pleats at each side of the front which are not only decorative but provide a modish fulness. The front is truly military manner, and may be adorned with buttons or frogs. A collar of the same or linen may complete the neck while the sleeves may be long or short. For the medium size 1 1/2 yards of 24-in material are needed. 4115—Size 12 to 14 years, bust measure.

4116 PRETTY BLOUSE JACKET

It often happens that one wishes to make her coat at home and no better model can be found for the purpose than the one shown. While being exceedingly smart and generally becoming, it may be developed in a variety of ways. For velvet, plush or imitation fur the coat is just the thing, being closed in double-breasted style or left open with reverse rolling collar. The pattern is necessary according ing to this season's styles, but is of excellent shape and size, suitable at either side of the front. The trimming straps extending over the shoulders and the sleeves may be in full or shorter length. Broadcloth, cheviot or any one of the catenias may serve for the top. The medium size calls for two yards of 16-inch material.
